

FEARFUL FREIGHT
WRECK ON CENTRAL
NORTH OF MILTON

One Person Killed, Two More
May Die, a Fourth Injured and Spectator Thrown From Carriage and Fatally Injured—Ten Cars Burned and
Two Compound Locomotives Disabled.

Collision Was Head-On and Cause
Was a Mistake in Orders—
Occurred at 6 O'clock This Morning—All Passenger Trains
Delayed as a Result.

Milton, May 7.—By the coming together, head on, of two freight trains on the Central Vermont railroad just north of this place shortly after six o'clock this morning, one man was instantly killed, two others received injuries which may result in their death, a fourth was badly cut, ten freight cars were burned and the two engines are a mass of wreckage. All things considered it was one of the worst accidents on the Central for some time.

The killed is A. L. Ranney of St. Albans, fireman, body not been found; those injured internally are Henry Willey of St. Albans, fireman, and Robert Farr, St. Albans, brakeman; Engineer Jack Ryan of the northbound freight, was severely cut about the head.

The scene of the accident is a short distance north of Milton. Both trains were through trains, not having orders to stop at Milton. The north bound had passed Milton a few minutes after six o'clock, and was making good time. The south bound was also making good time.

The huge engines, which were of the compound type, came together with terrific force and were lifted from the track, several cars were thrown into the air, and to add to the horror of the accident the wreckage immediately caught fire. As soon as possible the injured were removed from the mass of engines and cars which were piled in a heap and burning fiercely. They were taken to the Glenwood hotel in this place and medical aid was quickly summoned. The body of Fireman Ranney which lies under his locomotive has not been recovered.

Little could be done to check the spread of the flames, and before the fire was extinguished ten cars all heavily loaded were burned. The wreck presented a sickening sight today, with the ruins of the cars and the twisted and broken locomotives. The latter were Grand Trunk engines, and were particularly heavy, being of the compound variety. They were very valuable and were probably damaged beyond repair.

The cause of the accident is difficult to be assigned, but it is probably a case of misinterpretation of orders. The injured trainmen say that they were not running fast. They were not to stop at Milton, however, and it is probable that they were making fair time.

While inspecting the wreck this forenoon Mrs. Letourneau of Milton received an injury which will probably result in her death. She was in a carriage when the horse started and threw her out and against a telephone pole. The woman's head struck against the pole with great force and she was picked up in an unconscious condition. The physicians report that she is not expected to live.

The wreck was visited by a large number of visitors today, people coming from the surrounding country, Burlington and St. Albans. A wrecking train was sent from St. Albans and the work of removing the wreckage was started at once.

It will be some time, however, before the track is entirely cleared for traffic. All trains have been delayed for hours. Finally arrangements were made to send them around by Alburg and Burlington.

GOLD IN LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

Two New Yorkers Get Permission to Raise Sunken Treasure.

Glens Falls, May 6.—The Hon. Delcours S. Potter and his son, Malcolm S. Potter, of this village have obtained permission from Secretary of War Root to raise any sunken vessels which may be at the bottom of Lake Champlain. Those they have in mind belonged to the British, and were sunk in the Revolutionary War and in the War of 1812. Tradition says these vessels contained much treasure.

As Burgoyne's army was marching south toward defeat at Saratoga, the paymaster, being informed that the advance guard was attacked, threw his treasure box into a nearby stream. The box contained a large amount of gold just received from England, by way of Canada and Lake Champlain, intended for the payment of the troops. The paymaster, having a military map of the country, designated the spot where he had disposed of the gold.

This map, according to the recent visitor, was handed down from generation to generation, until at present it was his property, and he had come after the gold. With a diver the visitor went to the spot on the stream designated on the map and the search was begun. Finally the diver announced that he had found the chest. He then struck, however, and refused to raise the treasure without a liberal honorarium in advance. Each distrusted the other, a quarrel ensued and the search was abandoned. The Englishman declined several offers for his map and returned home treasureless.

UNSANITARY RUINS TO BE CLEANED UP

Sheplee & Jones and C. L. and R. S.

Currier Ordered to Do So By City Council.

At a special meeting of the city council last evening, Secretary of the Board of Health Dr. W. F. Gilman, and the health committee reported on the condition of affairs in the ruins of the fire on North Main street. The report said the conditions on the Sheplee & Jones lot were decidedly unsanitary and must be cleaned up at once, also the rear part of what was formerly the Segel & Brady store on the Currier lot. The council adopted the report and it is expected that the places will be cleaned up at once.

All the members of the board were present when Mayor Jackson called the meeting to order. It was reported that a woman who has five children was engaged in peddling in the city without a license. The matter was referred to Alderman Duffy to investigate and report what is advisable to do in the case.

Dr. W. F. Gilman, the health officer, then presented his report which was in brief that they had visited the burned district, that the cellar of the former Sheplee & Jones block is unsanitary from decaying vegetable and animal matter, that the condition is a menace to public health, that on account of groceries in the rear of the Segel & Brady basement that is "slightly suspicious" and should be cleaned up at once. The remainder of the Currier ruins were more a matter of control of the city authorities than the board of health.

Alderman Currier moved the adoption of the report and the motion prevailed.

The Boys' club petitioned the rent of the old building on the library lot be donated the coming year to the club, on four grounds, that the Boys' club is purely a philanthropic movement, that the club is not able to pay the rent, that it wishes to broaden its work next year and that the petitioners thought the city voters would so desire.

Alderman Currier stated that the library directors had looked at the house for the city library as the present accommodations were much too small but they didn't care to crowd the Boys' club out. He said the directors had also considered the place in the city building now occupied by the post office. The petition was finally referred to the library committee to investigate and report back.

The council accepted the invitation from Crandall Post, G. A. R., to participate in the Memorial day exercises, and the report of the water superintendent on a water extension to the Rheinhalter shed was tabled.

The board of health report for the month of April showed that there were sixteen deaths and 61 cases of measles. From the latter cause there were eight deaths.

The application of John Connick for a lunch cart license on Depot Square was granted, while the application of Charles H. Campbell for a lunch room license was referred to the license committee as there was a question raised as to where Mr. Campbell wanted the license for.

Two city warrants were ordered paid, one of $300 to purchase books for the library and the other to the Central Vermont R. R. for freight.

Alderman Currier then tried to get an expression of opinion as to whether the board would advise the paving of Main street over a sewer which was known to be damaged with each piece of piping broken in three places.

Alderman Duffy thought that if the sewer had stood 13 years as it is it might stand 13 years longer. Alderman Robins wanted the whole system examined from the mouth to the National Bank. The street committee expects to report soon if it deems it advisable to repair the sewer before the permanent road is started.

Learned's Latest Girl.

It may be justly said that the girls which Mr. Learned has drawn, and which have been published in the Boston Sunday Herald, represent a higher type of girl than do the work of any of Mr. Learned's contemporaries. These beautiful faces, refined and chaste, are ideals of young womanhood, and are so manifestly all that parents delight in their children, that boys admire in their sisters and that young men seek in their wives, that they have achieved a great popularity among the people of New England. In the Sunday Herald of May 10 of Mr. Learned's masterpiece, "A Breath of Spring," will appear on the first page of the Magazine Section. Admirers of Mr. Learned's work will see him at his best in next Sunday's Herald.

Payment for New School House.

AMOUNT OF $28,000

City Meeting Last Evening Also Voted to Borrow $25,000 in Anticipation of Taxes.

There were not enough voters at the city meeting in the opera house last evening to make a respectable funeral but business was transacted just the same. There were 32 men holding down seats when City Clerk Mackay read the warning for the meeting. Those who were there voted to pledge the credit of the city to borrow $25,000 in anticipation of taxes and decided to bond the city to the amount of $28,000 to build a new school house.

Frank G. Howland was chosen moderator and the business was disposed of in thirteen minutes. On the section of the warning to see if the city would borrow $25,000 in anticipation of taxes there was silence for several minutes and then R. S. Currier moved the city council be authorized to borrow that amount. Capt. H. A. Duffy seconded and the motion went through.

On the section relative to the method of paying for the new school house G. H. Page introduced a resolution authorizing the city to issue notes or bonds to the amount of $28,000, interest not to exceed 5 per cent per annum, to be paid yearly, $7,000 each year.

John J. McKensie seconded the adoption of the resolution and after James Marr had stated that he thought the building ought to be paid for sooner the resolution was adopted.

John J. McKensie moved an adjournment and the 32 voters, with a few additions, went out.
